Re: Offensive Post removed - Smiley Emoticon Violation

Look, if these are digs at me then forget it - the reason I put that note above there is because one of the members stated he had deleted another member's post because he found it offensive and then stated he would not be posting in the American forum again. Notice: 'HE'. At the same time he deleted all of his own posts. 😊

 Re: Offensive Post removed - Smiley Emoticon Violation

I found deleting an unprovoked, nasty, personal attack based on things that happened over two years ago at another board preferable to getting on an airplane, and going to pour glue in her keyboard. 😊

Edited to reduce rhetorical proposition from assault to vandalism. There I did it anyway. Some admins in the UK are still asleep.

No, I didn't really - it was far too gruesome!

I am on a learning curve where you are concerned Lono - and I have learned never to really upset you!

"Look, if these are digs at me..." - Vicky

THAT is why I love you Vicky - you are as completely paranoid as I am, and the language barrier between English to English combined with my sense of humor nearly ALWAYS losing a big chunk in the translation creates more unintended opportunities for comedy than a banana peel on a icy sidewalk.

I was yanking LONO's chain for being a dork. I would have also yanked Diane's chain for being WORSE (a WHINING dork), but that would have required engaging her in some way... and once you get her talking directly to you it takes months for her to stop.

Diane is only happy when she's "The Victim" - Why take that away from her? I'd ALMOST suggest randomly deleting a few of her posts every now and then - just to stroke her massochistic needs. Some people will not go where they are under-appreciated, Diane will not go anywhere where she cannot be the mistreated underdog and will ALWAYS bring along her baggage (pack to the brim) of grievances from previous boards. She will follow only to boards where she knows the same bunch of folks from before. I've known Lono, Erb, and Goldy for years and, as GOD is my witness, I've never seen two of us three ever visit a place for long before Diane materializes. I don't really dislike the woman and she really does have a heart of gold - but JAYSUS some times she's like one of those little pekinese dogs... once it has it's teeth in your pantleg it just won't leg go.

/end rambling rant

  Re: Offensive Post removed - Smiley Emoticon Violation

It's an odd thing this Diane business - she has always been so very nice to me and completely supportive in virtually everything I do. She has also taken up the cudgels for me on Lifeboat in the past, and I can't bring myself to shut her out.

Reading between the lines I suspect she has had a hard life, and yes she is a battler, but I admire her for that, I wish I could sometimes be more like her. If I was then this board would still be open and I would be taking on all comers and giving as good as I get - but that is not for me, although I do admire people who can do it.

Admit it, sometimes she is goaded into it. 😊

I have heard varying stories about the past history, never the same story twice, so I can't bring myself to judge anyone over it, and that is why I tend to let them get on with it.

It is easy. Select some text, and push control C. Then place the cursor where you want it, and press control V. Presto! 😊

Nobody goads her into following us around Ezland. I confess to giving her a brutal introduction to the world of crackling political discourse, however this is not that kind of board at all, Thank God. Now it is just like having gum stuck to the bottom of a shoe.

My problem is that I like both Erbie and Diane - which is why I never interfere. 🙄

Having Diane around is like having a toddler-sibling that insists on following you everywhere and then complains and tattles about everything.

It amazes me how much political information she keeps to hand, okay she may cut and paste, but she knows where to find it in the first place - I wouldn't know where to begin.

www.google.com

Half the stuff she posts she hasn't read, and it invariably debunks the argument she is supposedly making. That is how the bizarre threads like the yellow cake from last week get going. On political boards, people took offense to this type of thing. This fortunately is not that kind of board.

There are quizzes and fun places too. 😊
